Bow had a memorable first-ever Boys' Soccer season. We beat talented Coe-Brown both times we met them in the regular season but lost to them in the tournament (Sept 16, 1997) (Sept 30, 1997) (Oct 23, 1997). Coe-Brown ended Gilford's run of 10 straight championships the very next round (Oct 25, 1997). We even dealt Raymond, the eventual state champions, their only loss (Sept 23, 1997) (Nov 3, 1997) (Nov 4, 1997). The main weakness of this team was defense. Coach Pinkham frequently mentioned to the Monitor that the team was making too many mistakes defensively (Oct 14, 1997) (Sept 3, 1997). Sweeper Kevin Graham was excellent, however (Aug 30, 1997) (Sept 16, 1997).

Bow still had problems defensively this year (Sept 9, 1998) (Oct 13, 1998). This was mitigated by an improved offense, led by the potent strike partnership of Brendan Yout and Jeff Nelsen (Oct 15, 1998). Bow lost to Hopkinton in the tournament after sweeping the regular season series with them. Still, they gave the Hawks a tough game (Oct 22, 1998).

Before the season, Coach Pinkham declared that this was a “growing year” for Bow (August 29, 1999). So it proved. Bryan Oakland, a freshman, showed a lot of promise and talent this year (August 29, 1999) (Sept 8, 1999) (Oct 6, 1999) (Oct 16, 1999). The team finished off the season well, losing just 2-0 to eventual state champion Gilford, the game also being the first matchup of Coach Pinkham and his younger brother Dave, architect of the Gilford Boys’ Soccer Dynasty (Oct 21, 1999). Bow showed a lot of promise, and some talented players were about to come up.

This team was the first Bow team to be a major contender, and they won the championship. They were described as undersized in the preseason, but they had lots of talent. It was also expected that this would be a team with a lot of depth (Aug 27, 2000). Coach Pinkham expected a good season, but was surprised at how quickly the team gelled (Sept 21, 2000). There were some hiccups in the regular season, including losing both games against Hopkinton, but the team really hit their stride in the tournament. They thumped Pelham, then upset higher-seeded Inter-Lakes in overtime (Oct 23, 2000). The semifinal win against Littleton had the Monitor raving about Bow's skill, dribbling, speed, and ball control (Oct 24, 2000) (Oct 28, 2000). The final against Gilford was spoiled by gale-force winds. Bow kept Gilford scoreless in the first half, when the Golden Eagles had the wind. In the second half, Bow dominated and scored 2 goals. Bow was a deserving winner, and won their first championship (Oct 29, 2000). Jon Coache, probably Bow's best-ever player, had an outstanding freshman year.

This was a very strong team, losing only to a powerful Campbell team (that reached the semifinals) in the regular season (Oct 5, 2001) (Oct 24, 2000). In the semifinals against Winnisquam, Bow dominated as the Bears packed their 18-yard box with defenders. Bow had to really fight, and finally got the winning goal in overtime (Oct 24, 2000). In the final rematch with Gilford, the Golden Eagles suffocated Bow's prolific offense for most of the game and had several good chances to score. In the overtimes, Bow gradually began to get more scoring chances as both teams tired out, but couldn't capitalize (Oct 27, 2001). So, the game would be played again. Gilford's defense was again suffocating, and Bow's defense was great as well. The teams were very evenly matched, but Gilford was able to convert one of their chances and the one goal edge held up the rest of the game (Oct 30, 2001).

This was the best-ever Bow boys' soccer team. They plowed through all of their weaker opponents and beat the stronger ones (like Hopkinton and especially Campbell) in impressive fashion (Sept 29, 2002) (Oct 10, 2002). The offense was even better than the year before, and now they had a shutdown defense too. The final against Gilford was a tough game. The weather refused to cooperate, and it was rainy and windy. Both teams played very skilfully despite the conditions. Gilford controlled the play in the first quarter of the game, but couldn't score. Bow took control after that, and got two goals from corner kicks in the second half- the first deflected in off a Gilford player- and were able to contain Gilford's offense. The first goal (the own goal) was Gilford's undoing, and, as Coach Pinkham likes to say, the first goal is huge (Nov 2, 2002).

This was another strong team. Coach Pinkham said that this team could be as good as the previous years' team, so it must count as rather disappointing that they didn't at least reach the final (August 26, 2003). Sanborn was a very, very good team though that year (November 2, 2003) (November 7, 2003). It was certainly no disgrace to lose to them, and they won deservedly. This was the final season for Coache, Bow's best-ever player.

This year, Bow moved up into Class I. Although the team wasn't as strong as in the previous few years, they proved themselves to be a contender in the higher division (Oct 8, 2004). Despite losing in the quarterfinal, the Falcons gave three-time defending champion Oyster River everything they could handle (November 1, 2004).

This years' team was better than the previous years'; they were the No. 1 seed. The depth of this team (Pinkham could play 22 or 23 different players in a game) made a difference for much of the season, as it had for a couple of years, although it seemed to be a bigger deal this year (August 31, 2005) (November 4, 2005). Hanover had more high-quality scoring chances in the final and deserved to win, but Bow got a glorious chance to win in overtime that they failed to take. Nevertheless, Bow's achievement was impressive because they were the smallest school in Class I (November 6, 2005) (November 7, 2005).

This was a very impressive Bow team. It was a major disappointment that they lost in the quarterfinals to a dark-horse Lebanon team that was better than their record indicated. Bow was done in by a grievous mistake in overtime that led to a breakaway (October 30, 2006). I'd call it the most heartbreaking loss in program history. Also, Coach Pinkham suffered an aortic dissection while watching the semifinals, an injury that could have killed him if a friend hadn't persuaded him to go to the hospital, where he ended up having open-heart surgery (November 12, 2006).

Bow lost a lot of seniors and starters to graduation, and expectations weren't as high as the year before (August 24, 2007). Pinkham had doubts whether this team could make a tournament run, but they came together well and reached the final as underdogs (D'Onofrio November 4, 2007). They lost to Hanover, but gave the Marauders a massive scare (November 5, 2007).

Bow lost a ton of really good players after the previous season. Coach Pinkham expected the team to be much better later in the season, while the Monitor thought that Bow would be in the mix for the title by the end of the season (August 29, 2008). That prediction didn't really pan out, and Bow had a weak offense this year. The defense could be really good when it was working well, and it did in a first-round upset of Hollis, where Bow defended for most of the game and scored a goal late in regulation to win (Oct 30, 2008). The team also had "identity problems" early in the year (Sept 14, 2008). All of that was forgotten though as the team had an excellent tournament, upsetting Hollis and then nearly upsetting Oyster River. In the latter game, Bow had the best scoring chance of the game, but failed to take it and lost in the shootout (November 2, 2008). Indeed, it was virtually a moral victory, especially considering the dismal start to the season.

This year's team was projected to be better than the previous one, being deeper and somewhat more talented. This team was on the tall side, so winning the ball in the air was a significant advantage for them (August 29, 2009). They started the season well, then struggled against tougher opposition later in the season, and were disappointingly knocked out in the first round by Hollis. In that game, Hollis took an early 2-0 lead, but then Bow scored and got a breakaway that would have tied the game and possibly swung the momentum, but the Hollis goalie robbed them. Hollis finished them off in the second half (Oct 30, 2009). This is the only time so far that Bow hasn't had some prestigious victories or an encouraging end of the season.

This team came close to winning the championship, and had the edge in play for most of the first half of regulation in the final, but Gilford controlled the rest of the game, although Bow defended well (November 7, 2010). I read somewhere that Jason Underhill was named Division III Player of the Year by the Concord Monitor, which, if correct, makes it kind of curious that he was only Honorable Mention All-state. I would say that the 2012 team was a bit better than this one because this team had some major hiccups and doesn't appear to have been as good at their best as the 2012 team.

This was probably the second best team in Bow's history. Perfect record, massive scoring differential, and uber-talented players. Crisman in particular stood out. He was named Division III Player of the Year by the Monitor, if I recall correctly. The things where this team falls a bit short of the 2002 team is that this team didn't have to face Gilford, who were upset by Raymond, and perhaps a weaker schedule than the 2002 team faced as well. The 2002 team also seems to have had a better defense. Jason Underhill didn't play for the team again because schedule conflicts with his Development Academy team prevented him from playing for his school. Bow was clearly the best team in the Division this year.

This team, while not as strong or as consistent as the previous year's side, was still a potent combination, and of course, they also won the championship. The regular season results seem to indicate that the team frequently did not play up to its potential during that time. I remember the tournament games clearly. Hillsboro was an easy opponent, but Gilford was getting their fair share of the play in the quarterfinal before their backs were broken by a controversial penalty kick awarded to us that we converted. It snowballed from there. The semifinal was a doozy. Both teams were very evenly matched, and after Hopkinton scored first, we equalized with a brilliant individual goal by Crisman. Hopkinton had a goal in final seconds of regulation waved off by the referee, to their dismay and bewilderment. I confess that I too was puzzled by the decision. We won on a less-controversial PK that rebounded back to the shooter (Crisman) who buried it. The final was also tense. Belmont had won every game they played, and played a physical, defensive, long-ball oriented game. Play was pretty even until Bow got its goal. After that, Belmont gradually got more and more of the attacking pressure but couldn't get a goal, being denied by our defense and our goalkeeper (Bonifant November 4, 2012). This was Bow's first back-to-back championship. Also, this was Crisman's final season, and he repeated as the Monitor's Player of the Year, I think. He was a treat to watch, for sure.

I must admit that I may be biased in regards to this team, as I attended 15 games that year and was in the same graduating class as the seniors. Although this team failed to win a championship, they achieved an admirable result given what they had to work with. This team was lacking in pace (speed) and also lacked a game breaking star like Crisman from the previous few years. They succeeded with hard work and teamwork. Many of the seniors were cut from both varsity and JV their freshman year. They came back though, and all of them became at least solid contributors. The team was inconsistent in the regular season and seemed to lack scoring punch as well. The quarter- and semi-final games were major struggles against weaker opponents. They were simply outclassed by speedy, talented Hopkinton in the final. Nonetheless, I would say that they perhaps overachieved that year.

Thanks to Coach Pinkham for providing the statistics, results, rosters, and awards, to my mentor, Mr. Raynard, for advising me on this project, and my teacher Ms. Barnea. And thanks to my mom for helping with the research.
